LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter, dated July 1, 1974, was written to the Central Coast Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission by Rod Holmgren, a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee. The letter concerns the content of a recently issued report entitled "Coastal Land Element," the third in a series to be integrated into a plan for the entire California coastal zone and submitted to the legislature for approval shortly after Jan. 1, 1975.

Dear Sir:

I've read with interest the June 21 revision of the Coastal Land Element. It appears to be somewhat stronger than the first draft. Still, I was disappointed that several of the suggestions made during the meeting at Monterey Peninsula College in mid-June didn't make it into this first revision.

I'm particularly concerned that no policies are proposed for:

- coastal watershed management;
- protection of soil capability;
- an inventory of natural resources in the coastal zone, the central coast region especially;
- protection of unique geologic formations, including cliff areas, offshore seastacks, and natural bridges and arches such as we have at several places off the Monterey-Sur coastal areas;
- regulation of logging practices;
- a ban on air degradation.

A policy on coastal watershed management, it seems to me, would provide a way for regional and state authorities to have some say over land use practices which affect flood plains, fish migration and spawning, sand supply, wildlife and plants. The point is made at the start of Chapter II that "the coastal land environment is a natural system," and "its streams, plants and animals, soils and minerals, agriculture and air all interrelate in a highly complex dynamic system."

The same point can be made, of course, about each of the watersheds - Carmel River, Little and Big Sur and all the others. They, too, are integrated systems, and decisions on dams and wells, logging practices, factories and housing developments all have effects on watersheds. The Coastal Land Element quite properly puts its main emphasis on the areas where the land meets the sea. But on this coast, we cannot brush aside the closely integrated relationship between watershed and the meeting of land and sea.

Protection of the soil's quality, it seems to me, should involve a policy that would include machinery for regulation of pesticide and chemical fertilizer use. The four policy statements in the revised drafts do not seem to provide clearly enough for soil protection.

As I mentioned at the June 13 meeting at MPC, a natural resources inventory would include the coastal zone's geology, hydrology, climate, slope and topography, sun exposure, rainfall, wildlife, vegetation and so on.

It is possible that the state commission staff plans to include a policy calling for such an inventory in another element. In my opinion, it would be quite appropriate here. (In any event, if it is done, I predict that the product will be on the best seller list overnight.)

Some clear statement on logging practices, that would specifically limit both the areas to be cut and the methods to be used, is badly needed.

I suspect that the staff looked upon the two air quality policies as compromises. I don't think there should be any compromise on this issue. To offer the prospect of "minimizing" air pollution is to give up the battle before it starts. If the commission comes up with a no degradation policy, it will be far more certain of clarity on the issues in many forthcoming battles.

You will recall that at the MPC meeting, I suggested modification of the specialty sand mining policy. It seems to me that the slight change that has been made in the policy statement is not enough. Obviously, the dunes where the sand mining is going on are nearly gone. If this policy waffles, they will be gone before the end of this decade. May I suggest a policy statement calling for early phasing out of such mining?

Dear Editor:

Since I am one of these "misguided persons" who has been guilty of selling hundreds of tons of commercial fertilizer to the agricultural trade, I would like to comment on one of the matters presented by Organic Gardener in the July 4 issue of the Carmel Valley Outlook.

I agree that organic matter in relation to growing crops is very beneficial. Far too much salvagable organic matter is destroyed by some short-sighted agricultural practices. We realize that organic matter encourages bacterial activity, improves water retention, improves the physical properties of the soil and releases certain acids, such as humic, which, in turn, release plant food locked up in the soil.

However to categorically dismiss the value of commercial fertilizers as a subversive activity of the petroleum and chemical interests is present far from the true picture. American agriculture could never have achieved the productive capacity it has within economic possibilities without these chemicals.

One must realize that plants cannot utilize their own food in the organic form. Plant food has to be in an inorganic state before the plant can take it up. Compost and manures have to be converted from the organic to inorganic state, and this takes anywhere from three to five years.

Commercial fertilizers, however, are immediately available and can be raised or lowered in amounts to meet the needs of the particular crops. Granted, after a succession of applications of composts and manures, plant food elements are available, but not in sufficient quantity to maintain maximum production demanded to make growing them economically feasible.

I have always felt that supplying organic matter, as a means of properly conditioning the soil, supplemented by the addition of commercial fertilizers, to supply the nutrients necessary for maximum production, is the way to go.

When one considers the fact that 100 pounds of a commercial fertilizer will supply the plant food one would get from tons of compost and manures, one can readily appreciate why the ranchers go the commercial fertilizer route-especially if they are growing crops that return between $7 and $100 per acre.

Just the physical problem of handling vast amounts of manures and composts overcomes the chance of making a slight profit on such endeavors. This does not mean, however, that full utilization of crop residues (straw, etc.) should not be in their rotation program. The majority of ranchers realize this and take advantage of it in their crop rotation.

Regarding nutritive value, extensive unbiased tests have shown that there is little if any difference between crops grown by strictly organic methods and those grown with chemical fertilizers.

Taste, as well as nutritional values, depend upon how soon after harvest the food is consumed. On the taste score, a lot depends on plant genetics, and, to my way of thinking, far more stress has been placed on looks as a means of sales appeal at the expense of flavor qualities.

School board debates fate of Bay School

Reconstruction of Bay School was the main topic before the Carmel Unified School District Board at its meeting last night.

Architect Fred Keeble presented plans and cost estimates, totalling more than $67,000, for the reconstruction of the "Little Red Schoolhouse."

Recently condemned, the schoolhouse must now be up to the Field Act's standards if it is to be used in the future. This would entail reconstruction of the building to meet earthquake and safety standards as well as remodeling of bathroom facilities and facilities for the handicapped.

The board discussed the possibility of no longer using the school but Natalie Rodda, spokeswoman for the school said, "We want to preserve the school as a school, and not as a storage area, as proposed by Dr. Taylor."

Taylor had suggested earlier that the schoolhouse be used as a store room for the district. He stated that this would avoid the need to remodel the school and would also keep it in the school district as an instructional facility - hence the revisionary clause attached to the school's contract.

The revisionary clause states that if the facility is not used for school purposes, then the original owners can reclaim the school and the property from the CUSD.

The board voted unanimously to authorize the administration to have Keeble's plans checked and approved by the office of architecture and construction for a filing fee of $350. They also authorized the administration to obtain bids at the earliest possible time once the plan is approved.

The fate of the school will be discussed at the board's August 7 meeting, when it adopts the new final budget for the upcoming year. If approved, the expense for the schoolhouse repairs would increase taxes by roughly 4.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, or about $4 per year for a $50,000 home.

In other action, the board nominated its officers. Dr. Charles Snorf was elected president; Mrs. Frances Graver, clerk, Dr. Harris Taylor, secretary; Richard Wilsdon, legislative representative; and Pam Smith, representative to the county committee and county school boards association. Mary Lou Stutzman was elected by the board to serve as the CSBA delegate to the assembly.

The board unanimously approved an increase in the price of all Class A hot lunches by five cents per meal beginning next September. Elementary students will be charged 45 cents, Middle School and high school students, 50 cents, and adults will be charged 70 cents for hot meals.

Carmel Valley Rd. to be widened

Widening of Carmel Valley Road between Scarlett Road and Miramonte Road, covering a distance of about one and-a-half miles has been started by the Granite Construction Company of Monterey, according to Bruce W. McClain, county public works director.

The project involves the placement of a shoulder six to eight feet wide beside both traffic lanes and the overlay of asphalt concrete over the existing traveled way. The shoulders will provide a pathway for bicycle use.

Public traffic will be permitted to pass through the project but will be subject to control by flagmen, and some brief delays are anticipated. The project is scheduled for completion by September 6, 1974.

Motorists are advised to use caution while traveling through the area.

Schedule of public hearings

Planning Commission

Riverside Park: On Wednesday, July 31 a public hearing will be held to consider a request from Nicholas Neddelcove to extend the Riverside Park campground's use permit for one year and to allow two onsite mobile homes for resident employees. The matter was continued at the July 10 meeting of the commission.

Batch Plant: On Wednesday, August 14, a public hearing will be held in the supervisors' chambers in the county courthouse in Salinas to consider a request for a reclassification of two acres in Martin Canyon from the present residential agricultural zoning to general commercial for operation of a commercial concrete batch plant. The hearing was continued from July 10.

Cal-Am pumping facility: On July 31 the planning commission will hear a request by California-American Company for a larger building and new pumps at the existing pumping facility on Carmel Valley Road, west of Laureles Grade. The additions are planned to allow an increase in the amount of water pumped from 150 gal-min to 250 gal-min.

HEARING OFFICER

Villa Carmel del Pacifico: A public hearing will be held at 10:15 a.m. July 19 before County Hearing Officer William Stoffers on a draft environmental impact report for a 305-unit single family subdivision proposed for the easterly portion of the James Meadows tract. The hearing will be in the supervisors' chambers in the county courthouse in Salinas.

Rio Road Motel: A public hearing will be held at 10 a.m. on August 9 before County Hearing Officer William Stoffers on a draft environmental impact report for a proposed 127-room motel and restaurant to be located on two acres north of Rio Road at the mouth of Carmel Valley; a use permit request was filed by the developer, Carmel Properties Inc. of Monterey.

Zoning Administrator

Public hearings will be held on July 25 before the zoning administrator in the supervisors' chambers at the county courthouse in Salinas on requests for use permits for the following:

-to allow a temporary trailer on the Rancho Del Monte Subdivision No. 14, fronting on and easterly of Via Las Encinas; request filed by Philip Anastasia to be heard at 2:20 p.m.;

-to allow an art gallery and studio on Ford Road; request by James Trivette to be heard at 2:05 p.m.;

-to allow dwellings and an office in a C-1 (retail) district on Ford Road, request by Dr. John E. VonBerg to be heard at 2:15 p.m.

EMERGENCY

Fire

July 5, 1:08 p.m.: A mutual aid request came from the Salinas Rural Fire Department for a grass fire on Jeanette Rd. in Hidden Hills; the call was cancelled before C.V. firemen arrived since the fire was under control. July 6, 1:22 p.m.: The California Division of Forestry at Carmel Hill requested mutual aid for a grass fire at Tierra Grande; C.V. firemen stood by until the fire was under control.

July 6, 8:30 p.m.: A service call was made to Tularcitos School in response to minor flooding of the school grounds due to a leak in the sprinkler system; Firemen located the leak and contacted the caretaker.

July 7, 4:57 p.m.: A false alarm for cliff rescue was sounded from East Carmel Valley Rd.

Residential subdivision proposed for Meadows tract

A PROPOSAL for a 305-unit residential subdivision known as Villas Carmel del Pacifico to be located on approximately 500 acres in lower Carmel Valley will be brought before the county hearing officer at 10 a.m. Friday, July 19 for content approval of a draft environmental impact report. If the content is deemed satisfactory, the report will then be passed on to the board of supervisors for certification.

According to the report, prepared with the aid of George C. Bestor & Associates, Inc. of Monterey, the San Francisco firm of Carmel Valley Views, Ltd. plans to develop and sell 305- single family lots, with a one-acre minimum building site. With the exception of a few homes to initiate sales activity, the developer does not plan to build on the property.

The 497.3 acre parcel on which the project is to be developed is located on the north side of Carmel Valley Road, four miles east of Highway 1, on a parcel of the James Meadows tract owned by the Carmel Views.

The site consists of two fairly level terraces close to Carmel Valley Road with steep slopes rising toward a chain of ridges separated by deep valleys. The average cross slope of the site is 30 per cent and ranges between 30 per cent and 50 per cent over much of the proposed area.

Development on the property is scheduled to take place in five phases of 56 to 64 lots each, with the first phase to be completed on or about March 1, 1975. Succeeding stages are to be completed by about July 1, 1976, 1978, 1980 and 1982, although total occupancy is not expected until 2000.

The site is presently zoned K-G-J-B-4, which allows one single family residence per acre and agricultural uses, although no mobile homes are allowed. With a use permit, rest homes, hospitals resort hotels and similar uses would be permitted.

Carmel Views plans, however, to seek a reclassification of the property to R-1-D-B-6, and 0 designations, providing for one house per building site as approved by the board of supervisors, and for open space.

According to the report, adverse environmental effects which can be expected to result from the proposed project include:

- increased demand on water which is already in possibly critical supply;
- increased runoff from the site of 48.7 cfs;
- possible contamination of aquifers from septic tank effluent;
- increased load on transportation network;
- visual and physical impact on land forms due to cut and fill;
- increased erosion potentials;
- loss of a major portion of the project area as a wildlife habitat and loss of much natural vegetation;
- increased air pollution in Carmel Valley air basin;
- increased fire potential;
- increased load on schools;
- increased noise levels;

The report identifies water supply for the subdivision as a possibly critical factor. To date an assured supply has not yet been obtained for the project.

Once the project is completed, it is expected that the 305 families will use approximately 160 acre. ft-yr of water, with a peak day usage of approximately 250,000 gallons. This level will be reached gradually beginning with 10 families in 1975 using 5 acre ft-yr, and reaching a level of 80 acre ft-yr in 1985 when residence of 160 families is expected.

The site lies partially within the service area of the California American Water Company. New hookups, which would be required to provide adequate service are prohibited by the Public Utilities Commission's interim order of May 1973.

Two water services presently exist on the property: an unmetered ¾-inch service to the Leonard Williams' home and a 2-inch metered service near the southeast corner.

Carmel Views has devised four alternate plans, listed in the report, to meet the project's demands for water:

-If the PUC order is lifted, main extensions and annexations would be installed by Cal-Am at the developer's expense;

-If the PUC order remains in effect, a mutual water company would be formed to purchase water through the existing onsite meter, which has a flow of 230,000 gal-day; a use permit for the water transmission and eventual construction of storage facilities would be required;

-If the PUC order is tightened to prohibit Cal-Am from serving the mutual through a master meter, an onsite well would be developed on the southeast corner of the project, adjacent to the Lutheran Church; this plan, whereby homeowners would own and maintain facilities, would require a use permit;

-If an onsite well does not prove satisfactory, a well would be developed on nearby property owned by Leonard Williams, ¼-mile west of the site on the south side of the valley; neither the legality of obtaining water from the same aquifer as that used by Cal-Am nor the availability of the water has yet been confirmed.

THE FOURTH proposal, which calls for the eventual operation of two wells at 200 gpm, could result in a localized depression of the water in the surrounding 1000 acres. According to the report, it is unlikely that the drawdown in this area would reach as much as 30 feet or that it would exceed 15 feet in other nearby areas.

With respect to surface hydrology, the increase in impervious surfaces, caused by the development of Villas Carmel is expected to result in an increased runoff amounting to 48.7 cfs. The developer plans to mitigate the erosion effect by constructing surge detention-siltation ponds that will limit flows to approximately the peak rate prior to Development. Flash runoff in the southerly, frontal areas will be directed to the Carmel River through underground storm drains.

The sewerage plan proposed by Carmel Views calls for individual septic tanks to serve each separate lot. All of the 305 lots conform to the one-acre minimum site requirement established by the Water Control Board.

Gross volume of effluent upon total occupancy is expected to average 92,000 gallons-day.

The Monterey County Health Department has expressed doubt that the shale at the project site could handle the effluent due to limited filtration, limited soil bacteria and possible direct conversion to underground strata.

Assuming Carmel Valley Road to be the only access for Villas Carmel del Pacifico, the increase in the traffic on Carmel Valley Road is expected to total 2,745 additional movements per day when the project is finally completed. The 1973 traffic load on Carmel Valley Road at the entrance to the proposed subdivision was 8,000 vehicle movements per day.

"Traffic congestion will gradually worsen as additional units are built in the subdivision and the single access point could result in accordance with its designation by the county as a standard secondary sidehill street. In order to execute the complete plans for the development, approval would have to be granted by the board of supervisors for an additional access or for an emergency parking lane on Camino Pacifico, the roadway which is planned through the subdivision. The emergency parking lane would increase total permitted lot development by 60 units.

In order to develop the subdivision as planned, extensive grading will be necessary on the steeply sloped site. In addition to removal of an estimated 190,000 cubic yards of material for the roadbed area to be cut, removal of soil and vegetation will be necessary for driveways and short accesses to lots and for building sites.

While only a portion of the project would be visible from Carmel Valley Road, the report states, "The major esthetic impact will result from cut and fill areas which will be highly visible from adjacent properties."

"Many of the houses," the e.i.r. continues, "will be placed very prominently along the ridge tops and this will present a significant visual impact if the subdivision is approved with the lot configuration as it now exists. A frontal corridor concept might be explored to leave the frontal portion of this site undeveloped, which would present a more esthetically pleasing design," the report recommends.

Due to the light color of the Monterey shale - which underlies the project site - cuts made in this material tend to be highly visible. The report states that past experience with this shale has shown that "protective or esthetic vegetation will not normally take hold, thus leaving the slopes exposed for many years."

In a separate section, which points to an expected increase in erosion potential due to the grading, the report states, "The cut and fill operations could potentially result in the most severe impact on the site if the bare earth is left exposed for more than a short period of time." Moreover, undercutting of the beds located on a downslope of 45 to 55 degrees, as planned for a portion of Camino Pacifica, could trigger sliding activity, the e.i.r. cautions.

Plans for land utilization within the subdivision call for approximately 330 acres of building lot area, 45 acres of street and common drive space, and 122 acres of open space. The area designated as open space consists in large measure of very steep terrain, with more than half situated on a slope of 30 to 50 per cent, rendering the land useful for little else.

Included in the report is an inventory of plant and wildlife on the 497-acre property compiled in May 1973 by a team of locally resident naturalist specialists headed by Judson Vandervere. According to their report, the upper meadows, and woodlands on the property have remained essentially as they were "before the advent of Western man." The group suggested that these slopes covered by variegated grasses be preserved.

Of the many varieties of birds, mammals, reptiles and amphibians observed on the property, none were identified as rare or endangered species. Nonetheless, the report states that a major portion of the wildlife habitat and natural vegetation will be lost due to the development of the project.

Air pollution within the Carmel Valley air basin is expected to increase primarily as a result of the additional vehicular traffic which will accompany the subdivision development. The anticipated addition of 600 cars in the area will bring about an increase of 12 particulates of pollutants in the air, mostly from carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons.

Due to the extreme slope and the type of vegetation covering the area, the project site has been designated as a moderate to extreme hazard area on the fire hazard severity scale, with most of the site in the high hazard range. Therefore, the subdivision must be carefully planned for fire protection, the report warns.

Educational needs of residents in the proposed Villas Carmel subdivision will be handled by the Carmel Unified School District and the Monterey Peninsula Junior College District. It is estimated that 20-25 students will be added to the districts per year with a total of 213 students to be added in all.

According to the report, "The cumulative effect will be of consequence and additional school sites in the area should be considered if development occurs."

Acquired as part of the 4,552-acre Mexican Grant in the early 1800's, the proposed site was used for agricultural purposes until 1970, when a grazing lease from the then-owner Emily Martin Williams to Henry Barnes terminated. In 1964, Mr. and Mrs. Williams constructed a house, which remains the only residential use of the property.

CVPOA board to oppose Rio Road Motel

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association board voted unanimously during its meeting last night to oppose the 127-room Rio Road motel project proposed for a two-acre site at the mouth of Carmel Valley. The board based its stance on the proposed density and on the traffic, water and sewage and other problems anticipated as a result of construction of the motel development.

Planned by Carmel Properties Inc. of Monterey, the project consists of 127 guest rooms, a 140-seat restaurant, a manager's suite and lobby, a swimming pool and parking space for guests and employees. Of the five buildings comprising the project, those closest to Rio Road are to be single story, while those set back from the road will be two and three stories.

CVPOA President Bill Brown stated that he was unaware of any provision under the current zoning whereby a density of 64 units would be permitted. The two-acre property, located north of Rio Road and adjacent to the Holiday Inn is zoned R-3-D-B-4, which permits limited multi-family dwellings with motel and other uses allowed with a use permit.

Brown cautioned that according to a draft environmental impact report prepared on the Rio Road motel project, the development would result in an estimated increase in the traffic between Rio Road and Highway 1 of approximately 600 movements per day, with most of the traffic contributing to the existing congestion on Highway 1 north of the motel. This increase would be in addition to the 800-1200 movements per day estimated to result from the development of the recently approved, nearby 162-unit Meharry motel, Brown added.

Since there are existing water mains on the property where the motel is to be located, the Public Utilities Commission interim order would not bar the California-American Water company from servicing the project, Brown noted. Mrs. Anderson, who read a letter from PUC staff attorney Cyril Saroyan, stated that the "intent" of the order would nonetheless be disregarded if large-scale projects such as the Rio Road motel were permitted.

Brown stated that according to the draft report, an estimated average of 17,000 gallons of sewage per day would be added to the load of the Carmel Sanitary District if the motel project is constructed.

In response to a question from board member Vicky Gibson, CVPOA member Tom Hudson stated that the district would be required to provide service for the project if it is approved by the county.

The board learned of the proposed Rio Road motel project just weeks after an appeal to stop the nearby 162-unit Meharry motel failed. The CVPOA, which had consistently and staunchly opposed the Meharry project, had backed the City of Carmel in its appeal, denied on June 11 by the board of supervisors.

The board reaffirmed its opposition to the Meharry project last night, voting to notify the board of supervisors of their disappointment with the county board's action.

The zoning of the property on which the Rio Road motel is to be located is the same as that on the property where the Meharry motel is to be constructed, Brown noted.

He added that the Rio Road motel, if approved, will become the seventh largest on the Peninsula in terms of guest rooms. Existing transient facilities in the nearby area include approximately 1400 units, and more than 300 additional units have been proposed, he said.

"I think that the planning department should consider what's already been done to the mouth of the Valley and what they've left the door wide open for in the future," suggested board vice president Dolores Anderson.

In other action, President Brown summarized the plans of Landmark Lands Corporation's proposed golf course and condominium development of the former Holt Ranch. Brown stated that he had been assured by the developers that they are anxious to work closely with the CVPOA, and will be making a slide presentation before the property owners' group in two months.

Brown termed the golf project "deluxe," adding, "I think a development like this is a lot better than putting in 1,795 single family dwellings."

Recycling in the Valley

NEWSPAPERS may be deposited in bins for recycling at the following locations in Carmel Valley:

- Brinton's Hardware store in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center;
- Carmel Valley Outlook office in the Mid Valley Shopping Center;
- Carmel Valley Community Center on Ford Road; profits from the recycled papers will be used for youth activities sponsored by the center; the bin was donated by John Roscelli Corporation of Carmel.

GLASS is not yet being recycled through an organized community program. However, Isabel Pierce of Robles del Rio will accept glass, sorted by color, which she will deliver to the J.M. Smucker Co. plant in Salinas. Those wishing to deliver glass to her home or to help with driving to Salinas are asked to phone her at 659-4615.

VALLEY BUSINESSES BOOM

New in Carmel Valley Village within the next few weeks will be an appliance service, children's shoe store, another real estate office and another dress shop. Within the past few weeks, two established stores have moved into larger quarters especially designed for them; two motels have changed hands — one of these is designed to be converted into a shopping court; and within the past two days two business buildings have changed hands.

SPORTSWISE

Little League came about because the nation's youth seemed to be getting into more trouble than their predecessors did. Carl E. Stotz felt that young boys needed something to occupy their time. The idea spread slowly, but surely. Towns with juvenile problems began Little Leagues and the town fathers were happy to see juvenile crime on the decline. The fathers would often be at the games to see their sons play or sit on the bench. Headaches on a weekday afternoon seemed to be quite frequent among working fathers with the advent of an afternoon Little League game.

Men who had sons playing on a team would come out to root them on to stardom. Sometimes the men would become a little too absorbed in the game and altercations would follow some disputed call. Black eyes and bruised knuckles were status symbols among the fathers.

It is ironic indeed to note that with the decline in juvenile problems has come the increase in adult quarrels. Granted that some decisions by the umpires are erroneous, fathers, please try to control your emotions and set a good example for your sons to follow!

There will be a new post office built in Carmel Valley in the near future, but just where is still not decided.

This report was made at the monthly meeting of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce last week at the Robles del Rio Lodge.

At that meeting, the postmaster said post office officials are studying several possible sites, and are particularly concerned that the building not only be in a suitable location, but that it conform to the standards and appearance typical of other commercial buildings in Carmel Valley.

The present post office at the eastern edge of the Village is completely inadequate, and the proposed new building will be several times larger. The original Carmel Valley post office was located in what is now Rosie's Cracker Barrel in Robles del Rio.

RODEO SEASON STARTS

Rodeo season was ushered in today with the annual Big Hat barbecue sponsored by the Monterey County Sheriff's Possee at their grounds on Natividad Road in Salinas.

The Big Hat barbecue, at which more than a ton of steaks are consumed by rodeo fans, is always the signal for the residents of Salinas to get out their big hats and cowboy boots as this modern city turns back the pages of history to the days of the Old West.

This year it has special significance because it is the start of an uninterrupted ten days of Western activities culminating with the big California Rodeo, July 17-20.

Helping to expand the celebration this year will be the California's Rodeo's County

Music Festival on July 12 and 13. Other pre-rodeo events will include the Foley and Burk carnival, entertainment at shopping centers and industrial plants and the Kiddie Kapers parade, in which more than 3,000 children from all parts of the county will participate.

TAX CUT COMING

The Carmel School Board last night approved a record publication budget of $5,117, 439 for the coming year, which will mean a cut in property taxes of 17 to 23 cents.

This paradox comes about because the district must operate under a per-pupil spending limitation established by SB 90 and cannot take full advantage of an unprecedented 15.9 per cent jump in assessed value.

The publication budget presented to the board is based on an anticipated tax rate of $2.61 per $100 of assessed valuation, down 23 cents from this year's rate of $2.847.

'Thanks' from Sal O'Campo

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was written by Sal O'Campo, whose surprise birthday celebration, organized by his children was attended by scores of Valleyites last week.

Dear Editors:

For the wonderful birthday party -- the gifts, cards and food, and to all my friends who helped Cindy, Tom and Larry make it possible -- my sincere thanks.

SAL O'CAMPO

Carmel Valley Little League once again made it a day-long star-spangled 4th of July for Valleyites as well as many Carmel families who came out to support their first and second place major teams on the Paso Hondo field.

During the morning competition, Carmel's second place Granite Rock Giants shut out the Carmel Valley Lions in a 5-0 opener. The undefeated Buckeye Wildcats maintained their 1974 winning season record with a 5-3 victory over Carmel's Derek Raynes team.

Barbecue chairman Mrs. Dale Buche estimates between 550 and 600 were served throughout the afternoon and asked that a special "old oak leaf cluster" be awarded to Leon Panetta, Ben O'Hare, and Dale Buche, who cooked over the barbecue pit throughout the day.

League officials had suggested for some time that the presentation of an additional annual player award be made to the most improved 12-year-old. As President Bill Conlan remarked during the awards ceremony, the honor goes to the player who's "turned into a real hustler on the field."

Coaches and managers got together to review the 1974 crop of 12-year-olds and made the following nominations: Tom Vannetta, Don Burghardt, Tim McCrary, Robbie Cole, Jeff Harber, Rich Klingensmith, and Rick Hindman.

The next step was to select someone deserving of the dedication of such an award -- someone who has coached, managed and worked on field with individual players for 15 or more years. The choice was naturally Sal O'Campo, who personally awarded the first annual Sal O'Campo trophy for the most improved 12-year-old player in the Carmel Valley Little League for 1974 to Tim McCrary.

Door prizes claimed at the Little League benefit included: dinner for two at Mission Ranch, the Jack Garrets; baseball glove, Gary Watson; 15 gallons of Mobil gas, Marilyn Raynes; rod and reel, the Baudours; Marzi's pottery, Mark Stewart; baseball bat, Roger Fulton Jr.; dinner for two at the Highlands Inn, Roger Fulton Sr.; fielder's glove, Sir Alexander; dinner for two at Rocky Point, Sylvia Panetta; and pitch back, Paul Corona.

A healthy outlet was provided for anyone who, during the season, developed an axe to grind with a coach, manager or umpire-the dunking machine. Three balls for a quarter gave every man, woman and child with a real or imagined grudge the opportunity to give the blackguard a good-natured dunking.

The best sport of the day had to be barbecue chairman Mrs. Dale Buche, who took the final turn on the triggered plank, where she was dunked several times -- even by her own children.

After a final count of ticket sales by each of the league teams, the Will's Fargo Tigers were awarded the trip to Oakland to view the Oakland A's. Accompanied by coach and manager Warren Kaufman and Miss Patti Bruce, the boys drove to the game on Saturday and saw the A's battle the Baltimore Orioles.

Super salesmen making the trip were: Kevin Washington, Rodney Anderson, Garth Hattan, Brian Pearson, Ron Alexander, Joe Victorine, Billy Kaufman, and Chris Fosso. And so another season ends, with the team standings as follows:

TEAM	WINS	LOSSES
Wildcats	16	0
Lions	10	6
Volunteers	6	10
Tigers	5	12
Indians	3	14

Remember the first All Star District Tournament playoff game will be held at 10 a.m. July 20, when Carmel Valley All Stars will meet the Seaside All Stars at the Carmel field.

Spanning the continent

The Viljoen family will span from the tropics to the arctic when longtime Rancho resident Mrs. Carol Viljoen and children, Laurie, Vickie, Heidi, and Lisa, leave the Valley for adventure and a new residence near Fairbanks, Alaska.

Robles del Rio resident Mrs. Francie Casarez and sons have purchased the Viljoen home and will be moving in late July.

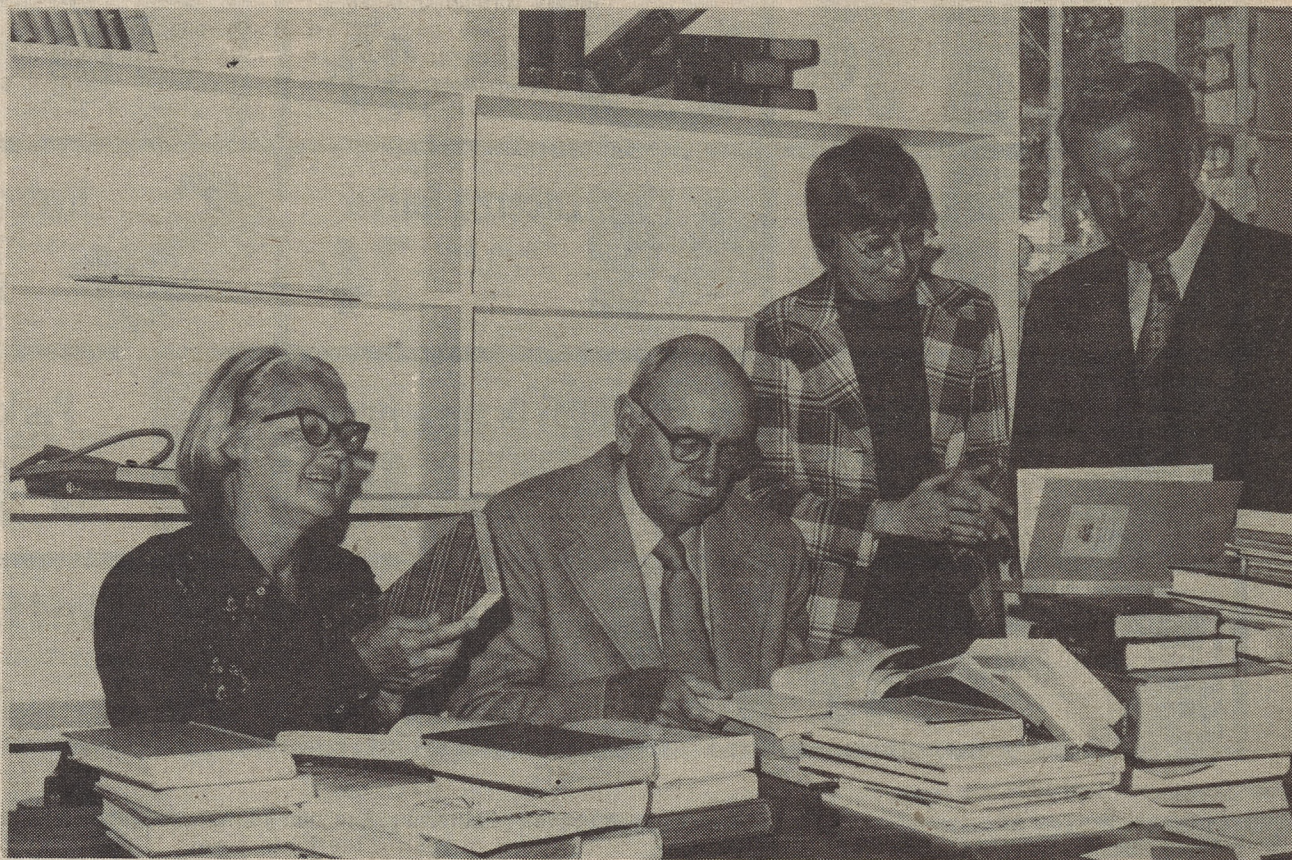

Over in the tropics is Mrs. Viljoen's son, Bill, an aircraft maintenance specialist with the US Air Force, stationed on Oahu at Hickam Air Force Base.

Bill enlisted a year ago following graduation from Carmel High School, took his basic training at Lackland Air Base in Texas, and went on to Sheppard Field and then the Islands.

The assignment is a special one because three-day passes are spent on the big island of Hawaii with Bill's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Viljoen former Valleyites. Bill's father is Ben Viljoen, a resident of Monterey.

Lions greet French counterparts

One hears a great deal about the Lions International, but the meaning has never been quite as clear as it was last

MRS. JANET Gaasch, president of Friends of the Harrison Memorial Library; Carl Johnson, member of the executive committee; Mrs. Vicki Jones, head librarian; and Rockwell Hereford, treasurer of Friends, enjoy examining some of the interesting books to be sold at the Used Book Sale, July 12 and 13, Carmel Plaza, Carmel-by-the-Sea, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The sale is sponsored by the Friends, with all proceeds to go to the Harrison Memorial Library. (Photo by Ron Gaasch.)

Tuesday on Cannery Row when Carmel Valley Lions Club members Clifford Bolgard, Charlie Gansel, Dick McKenzie, and Gary Kitt and their wives prepared to welcome 130 French Lions and their wives for lunch at the Outrigger en route to the convention in San Francisco.

The Frenchmen had not arrived (in fact their bus was two hours late) but awaiting instead were five busloads of Lions and wives who had been brought to the Peninsula from the convention in San Francisco.

The Valley welcoming crew met representatives from Switzerland, Germany, Canada, and nearly every state in the union.

When the French delegation finally arrived, the French governor and Dick McKenzie exchanged banners, with similar tokens presented to clubs from Pacific Grove, Carmel, Seaside, and Carmel Valley.

The Valleyites enjoyed the contact made with new European friends, who in turn were impressed with the beauty of our area.

Buches enjoy family vacation

A holiday in the southern part of the state soaking up San Diego sunshine, visiting the Zoo, Sea World, Tiajuana, and watching the San Diego Padres vs. the San Francisco Giants was climaxed for the Buche children by a visit to Disneyland with their parents Gail and Dale.

Greeting Kirsten, Brock and Kirk personally as they entered the magic kingdom was Mickey Mouse, and lovely Snow White stepped out of the Disneyland parade to present her entire balloon bouquet to Brent and to kiss Kier on the cheek.

Holiday gathering at the Bundgards

The flag (old Glory, that is) was out at the Live Oak Lane home of Doris and Norman Bundgard to welcome friends who arrived from Salinas, Carmel, and Carmel Valley to celebrate the Fourth of July with traditional holiday no-host potluck.

Red, white, and blue decorations, collected over the years, were brought out for the occasion, delicious dishes enjoyed, patriotic songs sung, and the pool filled throughout the day with willing (and some not so willing) swimmers. Through it all, a Yankee Doodle clown exuded gaiety on July 4th.

Used book sale this weekend

Friends of Harrison Memorial Library are sponsoring a used book sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., 12 and 13 on the Ocean Avenue level of the Carmel Plaza. All monies from the sale will be used to purchase new books for the library, according to Mrs. Hank Adams, chairman of the event.

Assisting will be Mrs. Eben Swift, Mrs. Van King, Mrs. Sydney Crane, and Mrs. Leighton Phillips.

The committee is soliciting donations of books, music, records, prints, and paintings to go with approximately 5000 surplus books pulled from the library shelves. Books were selected from the library collection by Mrs. Vicki Jones, librarian, who considered factors such as duplication, poor circulation, similarity to other books and conditions.

Friends of Harrison now have a membership of 195. The officers include: President Mrs. Janet Gaasch; Vice President George Short; Secretary, Mrs. Ted Durein; Treasurer, Rockwell Hereford; Public Relations Chairman, Mrs. Tom Tonkin; Projects Chairman, Mrs. Hank Adams. Members-at-large on the executive committee are Mrs. Johanna Dirksen and Carl Johnson.

Activities planned by the organization include library service to shut-ins, expanded volunteer service to aid library staff; local history collection; and Fireside Social gatherings, featuring poetry readings, and book reviews.

The sale will provide a superior collection of children's books as well as some interesting rarities such as a copy of Gulliver's Travels illustrated by Rackham, a leather bound edition of Thomas Jefferson's Notes on the State of Virginia, and a first edition by Hemingway.

Free coffee will be served, and the public is cordially invited to come and browse...and buy.

Math workshop July 16-17

An ESEA Title I Math Workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on July 16-17 in the Tularcitos multipurpose room.

Anyone interested in serving as a volunteer in the fall or in learning how federal funding is used is cordially invited to attend.

Instructors will be Mrs. Evelyn Holmes and Mrs. Susan Venturelli. There will be free baby sitting available and cookies and coffee served throughout the sessions.

Valley student attends engineering seminar

Michael Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lyon of Carmel Valley, is one of five hundred of the nation's top high school students with demonstrated aptitudes for engineering or science who participated in the first Naval Academy Engineering Science Seminar and Workshop at Annapolis, June 23 through June 28.

Michael was one of more than 3000 young men between 15-17 years old from across the country who competed for invitations to attend the five day workshop. Final selection was based on the students' performance in the Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

During the seminar, Michael and other students had the opportunity to receive professional instruction from academy faculty members in the fields of engineering, computer science, physics, chemistry, mathematics and environmental science. Laboratory facilities were available.

In addition, they were able to work with and use the academy's Honeywell 635 computer from a remote terminal. A field trip to the Naval Research Center at Carderock, Md. was included.

According to Cptn. Ronald A. Campbell, director of candidate guidance, the main purpose of the seminar was to encourage outstanding students who have demonstrated the necessary ability and aptitude to pursue a career in one of the engineering or science areas.

The workshop participants lived and dined in Bancroft Hall, the home of the Brigade of Midshipmen, while attending the seminar.

Bisnett and Reeve-Wilson graduate from UCSC

Valleyites Brian James Bisnett and Gregory Kyle Reeve-Wilson were among the 800 graduates of the University of California, Santa Cruz this year. Bisnett was awarded a B.A. degree in politics, and Reeve-Wilson graduated with a B.A. degree in psychology.

Undergraduates received their degrees during individual ceremonies held at UCSC's eight cluster colleges. In addition, 61 advanced degrees were announced campus-wide at the ceremony addressed by UC President Emeritus Clark Kerr, who praised the nine-year-old campus as "the most innovative state university campus in the nation."

"It is an experiment that succeeded," said Kerr, "and many public campuses, including within the University of California, now seek to imitate its success with their own cluster college of colleges."

Kerr is director of the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education.

Two fires flare simultaneously in Carmel Valley

Two fires broke out simultaneously last Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Valley. The fires broke out across from the Begonia Gardens and adjacent to Wolter's Market on Carmel Valley Road.

Seven California Division of Forestry fire engines responded to control the blaze across from the Begonia Gardens. One truck from the Carmel Highlands Fire Department and one from the Carmel Valley Fire Department provided assistance on a mutual aid basis. The fire was caused by a 12-year-old's playing with fire-works. There was not structural damage, but one fire fighter received slight injuries.

The blaze by Wolter's Hacienda Market caused structural damage to a house occupied by a farm hand at a ranch, but occupant Rogelio Deanda received no injuries. The division of forestry dispatched two engines to the scene. The fire, caused by faulty electrical wiring, resulted in $1,000 worth of damage.

Local dentist elected to national post

Dr. Richard A. Lundquist, a practicing dentist in Carmel Valley and Salinas was elected treasurer of the American Society for Preventive Dentistry at their recent national meeting held in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Lundquist, a former book editor, writer and radio-television newsmen, is the past president of the California chapter of ASPD.

The American Society for Preventive Dentistry is an organization concerned with the oral health of the public and is engaged in extensive programs of education to create public awareness that proper personal daily care of teeth not only preserves the teeth but actually reduces dental disease and in many cases, other diseases. Exciting new research programs in the area of nutrition are being covered by special nutritional conferences as well as ongoing scientific programs sponsored by the American Society for Preventive Dentistry. Membership in the Society is made up of individuals from the dental field, public health, and others interested in prevention of oral disease.

Baez receives honorary degree in England

CARMEL VALLEY resident Dr. Albert B. Baez was recently awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of the University at Great Britain's Open University. He received the degree in ceremonies held in Birmingham, England, in recognition of the year he spent with the Open University as a visiting professor.

The Open University is, according to Baez, "Great Britain's newest experiment in utilizing all the media, including television, to bring the opportunity of high education to the working classes. It utilizes the most modern tools, such as a computer, both for teaching and learning strategies, as well as for generating a constant evaluation of students' progress."

"Without the computer," Baez said, "the university wouldn't work because it now has 50,000 students. In the three years of its existence, it has grown to be the largest university in Great Britain."

Also receiving degrees from the Open University were Prime Minister Harold Wilson; Sir William Armstrong, former head of the Home Civil Service; Professor Arthur Lewis of Princeton University; Alan Pifer, president of the Carnegie Corporation, New York; and Dr. Ronald Tress, master of Birkbeck College, London.

Baez was introduced by Professor Michael Pentz, dean of science and director of studies at the Open University. Professor Pentz noted that "a lot of people around the world have benefitted in one way or another from Dr. Baez's work on the improvement of science teaching, especially in developing countries." Baez spent six years, from 1961 through 1967, as the director of the Division of Science Teaching of UNESCO.

During this time he was involved in a large publication program, producing the series "New Trends" in physics teaching, chemistry teaching, in biology and mathematics teaching. He also started four pilot projects: one in physics teaching in Latin America, one in biology teaching in Africa, one in chemistry teaching in Asia, and one in mathematics teaching in the Arab States.

Since he left UNESCO he has worked as a consultant for that organization, helping to prepare projects for the establishment of a Science Teaching Center in Science of the International Council of Scientific Unions. In the latter capacity he has very recently taken on a new project to develop an ICSU program on environmental education.

Professor Pentz quoted Baez as having written: "I am driven by a faith in education as the basic ingredient of ultimate peace and in the important role that the spirit of science must play in infusing the whole of education."

"I am now more interested in better ways to learn than better ways to teach," Baez

Presently, Baez is chairman of the Committee on Science Education of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and chairman of the Committee on the Teaching of Israel, and for similar centers in Brazil and Thailand.

IN ADDITION to his aforementioned accomplishments, Baez has written an excellent physics text book based on the Harvard summer physics course which he taught for several years and is currently writing a book for UNESCO on "Innovation in Science Education--Worldwide." Before his experience at UNESCO turned him into educator, his scientific activities included research in x-ray optics and holography.

He has made 21 16 mm films in physical science and 69 short silent 8 mm cassette loop films on experiments in physics for Encyclopaedia Britannica.

with the Monterey Peninsula Area Championship game between the two Saturday winners. The championship game will be played at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, July 24, at the Carmel field.

The Monterey Peninsula Area champion will go on to play the Santa Cruz County champion at 1 p.m., Saturday.

Allstars vs. the Seaside-Del Rey Oaks Allstars.

On Saturday, July 20, there will be two games, both at the Carmel field. At 10 a.m. the Carmel Valley Allstars will take on the Seaside National Allstars, and the second game, scheduled for 1 p.m., will see the Marina Allstars battling with the winners of Thursday's game. The tournament concludes

Dental Dodgers steal Senior League title

Winding up the Senior League season last night, the CPYAA Athletics defeated the Knights of Columbus Giants in a protested game playoff and in the nitecap, the Carmel Dental Dodgers became the 1974 Senior League champions by winning a tie-breaker over the Giants.

Following last night's game, League President Arthur Black Jr. named the following as 1974 Senior Allstars: Alan Dewey; Mark Dodd; Mark Elliott; John Frincke; Tom Frincke; Steve Gere; Stan Lockwood; Frank Lucido; Larry O'Campo; Tim Poehlmann; Kelly Ragan; Will Sanford; Mike Scalise; Steve Sepersky; Steve Sherman; Greg Thigpen; Morgan Ward; and Les Welge. The allstar manager is Gerry Artellan.

As the Senior League season enters its final week, three teams are still in contention. On Wednesday, July 10, there will be a tiebreaker between the Knights of Columbus Giants and the Carmel Dental Dodgers at 6 p.m. and a protested game playoff between the Carmel Police Youth Athletic Association Athletics and the K of C Giants held at 5 p.m. Following the two games, the 1974 Senior Allstars will be named by League President Arthur Black Jr. In last weeks Senior League action, on Saturday, June 29, the Kiwanis Tigers romped over the Rotary Mets 16-6. Mark Elliott pitched his way to the win, and Mike Scalise was tagged with the loss. Larry Ocampo of the Tigers slammed his second home run of the season.

On Monday, July 1, the Giants shut out the Carmel Host Lions 12-0. Scott Thigpen pitched a two-hitter and Micah Willingham got the loss. Steve Sepersky and Les Welge of the Giants doubled. Tuesday saw the Mets beat the Buckeye Padres. Seth Bernstein was credited with the win for the Mets.

The Lions ended their season Wednesday with their 14th consecutive loss, losing to the Tigers. Paul Corona got the win for the Tigers as the Lions allowed 24 Tigers runs.

The CPYAA Athletics came back in the last inning Thursday to edge the Giants 6-5. Steve Gere picked up the win and Steve Sepersky was tagged with the loss. Mark Dodd doubled in the sixth inning to knock in a RBI for the A's.

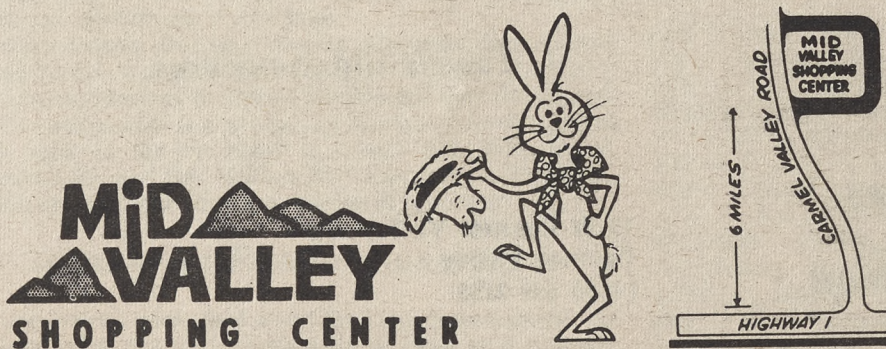

On Saturday, the Tigers defeated the Giants in a make-up game, but the Giants came back in the second game of the make-up double-header to defeat the Tigers, thus ending the Tigers chances for the championship this season.

Planning commission approves Laguna Robles residential project

The county planning commission yesterday voted to recommend to the board of supervisors for approval a 21-unit residential project known as Laguna Robles, to be located on 11.56 acres just south of Carmel Valley Village, adjacent to the Carmel River. Plans for the project were designed and submitted by Larry Cummings of Carmel Valley.

In approving the plan, the commission agreed to rezone the entire property as a special treatment district (ST-D 1.82 ac.), to allow a maximum of 1.82 units per acre, thus permitting no more than 21 units, one less than had been requested by Cummings.

The property had been zoned to allow four quadruplexes and three single-family dwellings, amounting to a total of 19 units. But due to what the commission deemed the unusual quality of the project, members of the commission agreed to permit an additional two units with the provision that the entire property be reclassified as a special district.

"Our idea was that Cummings deserved a little special treatment since he was proposing to build something especially nice," stated Planning Commissioner Dr. Edward Marcucci of Carmel Valley.

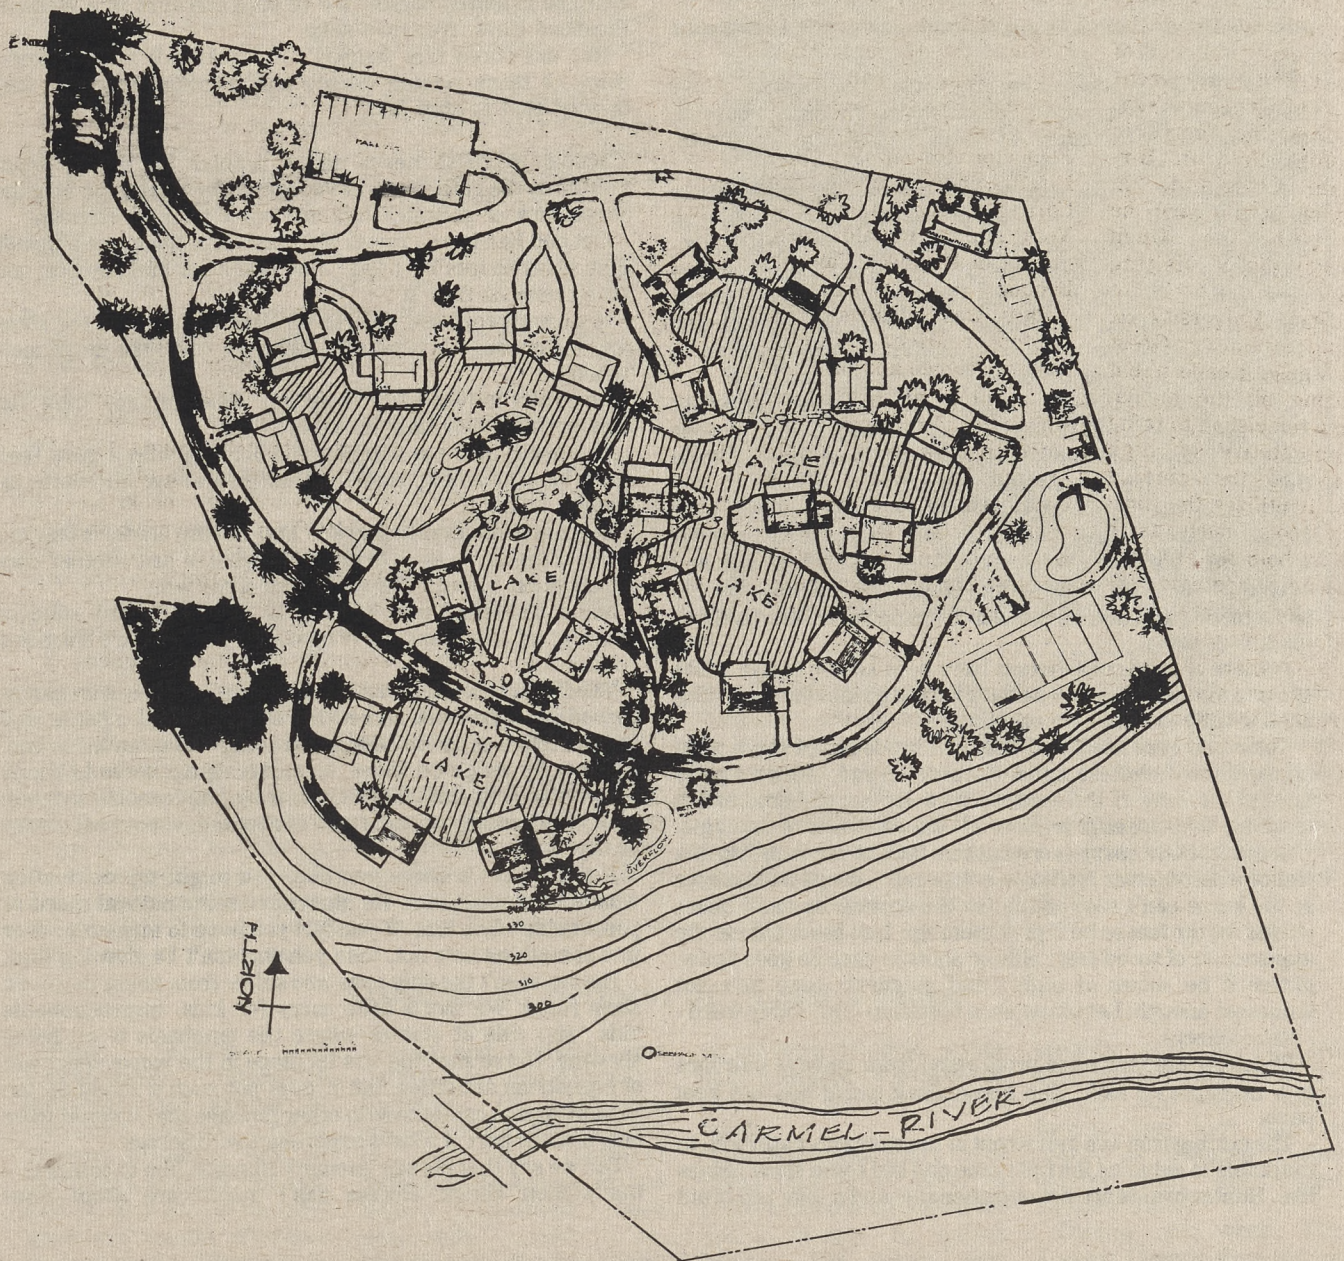

Present plans for Laguna Robles call for construction of 21 one-story homes for resale as single family residences, with covered parking for each unit, visitor parking, a maintenance building, swimming pool and private roads to be provided. Construction is confined to the plateau area, with the southerly portion of the property, adjacent to the river, to be preserved for its present use as bridle paths.

In describing the design of the project, Cummings explained that each of the houses will have a deck extending over one of the five man-made lakes to be located on the property. The lakes are to be located on several levels and connected by waterfalls. The largest of the lakes, traversed by a footbridge, is designed to a distance of 200 yards.

Under the ST-D classification, the county will be able to exercise a higher degree of control over the development of the project than under a classification. Before construction can legally begin, a use permit, design approval and a final subdivision map approval will have to be granted by the board of supervisors.

The commission had also been scheduled to hear two other matters pertaining to Carmel Valley. The commission continued until July 31 a hearing on extension of the present use permit for operation of Riverside Park, with the addition of two mobile homes for resident employees.

The hearing scheduled for yesterday's session on a reclassification of two acres in Martin Canyon for operation of a batch plant was continued to August 14.

THE PLANS FOR Laguna Robles, a 21-unit single family residential planned unit development proposed for an 11.56-acre tract south of Esquiline Road, calls for the creation of five man-made lakes to be connected by waterfalls. The project site was rezoned yesterday by the planning commission as a special district. (The above drawing of Laguna Robles by Tom Goble of Carmel includes an extra residential unit which will not be included in the actual development.)

County fair to provide wide range of entertainment

Thousands of entry blanks are being processed, and the grounds are being restored to top shape as division chairmen prepare to receive the entries for the Monterey County Fair scheduled for July 23-28.

There is still one entry blank deadline ahead, July 14, for entries in the agriculture-horticulture division, which reflects the agricultural products of a county that ranks first in the nation in vegetable crops. Richard Nutter, Monterey County agricultural commissioner, is chairman of this division.

Professional entertainment, to be presented free on the outdoor stage during the fair, will feature different acts on different days with something to please all tastes.

A flamenco dancing group, featuring Frances Luna, sister of famed dancer Cruz Luna, and a member of his troupe will perform on the first two days of the fair.

Then, on Thursday and Friday, Storybook Productions' delightfully costumed performers will enact nursery tales with the active participation of young members of the audience.

On Saturday, four members of the Margo Dancers will present some of the acts which have delighted Las Vegas audiences. Sunday performers will be Sunny Day and the Country Kin, a country-western group.

Thanks to the efforts of the Monterey Peninsula 20-30 Club, an official frog jumping contest will be held Saturday, July 27, with the winning frog eligible to compete in the preliminary winners' contest next May 17 at the Jumping Frog Jubilee in Angels Camp.

Gaspar Spadaro and Jeff Scoville are chairmen of the contest, the first to be held on the Monterey Peninsula. They are currently enlisting sponsors for the frog contestants among service clubs, media people, political leaders, and others.

Trophies and awards will be given for those placing in the many divisions of the competition.

A special feature of this year's fair, which has "Youth" as its theme, will be the exhibit in Pattee Arena of the work of several youth organizations, including Camp Fire Girls, YMCA, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, the Seaside and Salinas Recreation Departments and Fort Ord youth groups.

Also on display in the arena will be class and individual projects of students from many of the county's schools.

Work on the colorful garden displays will begin this weekend, and Floriculture Chairman Eve Matusek anticipates an imaginative array of miniature gardens.

"Youth" is an especially appropriate theme in her department, because she has encouraged young people to compete with gardens, cut flowers and flower arrangements during all the years of her chairmanship.

The new junior division building, uncompleted but in use at last year's fair, has been completed and will house all of the non-livestock entries of hundreds of 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America participants. 4-H demonstrations are planned for a special stage in Pattee Arena.

Leslie E. Dixon, president of the Monterey County Fair Board of Directors, is enthusiastic about the plans for the 1974 fair. "We should get an even bigger crowd than last year," he said, "and no one will be disappointed in what they will find here."

Portions of Hunter Liggett to be closed to public

The extreme fire danger in southern Monterey County requires that a portion of the Hunter Liggett Military Reservation be closed to public use effective tomorrow, according to sources at Fort Ord. The closure reinforces fire prevention measures put into effect earlier by the U.S. Forest Service and the California Division of Forestry, including the emergency closure last week of portions of the Los Padres Forest.

Portions of the reservation to be closed include the area lying north and west of the Nacimiento-Fergusson and Sulphur Springs Roads, and the Argyle Area, which lies to the east of the Jolon-King City Highway. These areas will be clearly posted and will be patrolled by military authorities.

Two roads will be open for public travel through the closed area: the Nacimiento Road, which traverses the reservation and the national forest to the Coast Road, and Del Ven turi Road, which gives access to the Indians and Memorial Park in the national forest.

The hunting and fishing programs will continue at Hunter Liggett, although fewer sportsmen can be accommodated in the area not affected by the closure. Anyone desiring specific information regarding restrictions may contact the military authorities at Hunter Liggett.

By LUCY SMITHSON

PRETTY IS as pretty does my mother always said. We've been watching some pretty horse shows this past weekend, and would like to report on some of those pretty horses, beauty ain't even skin deep.

Now we don't wish to condemn all the artificial aids to beauty. But it's hard to know just where to draw the line on gussying up horses. What's natural and what's artificial?

Clean is always acceptable. There are even horse shampoos and rinses that leave the horse hair shining. Cynical chemists may claim that the high price shampoo is not much different than dilute Ivory soap, but fancy shampoos are a harmless way to spend money.

A little snowy bleach added to the shampoo for white horsehair is the only way to get rid of stable stains. And no one really objects to black shoe polish on black hooves, even though it won't last two circuits of the ring.

We feel a little iffy about powdered whiteners, such as chalk or cornstarch (that's what's in commercial powder whiteners.) We have even seen an Appaloosa whose hips had been sprayed with white paint. While this did improve his photogenic qualities, we wonder if it impressed the judge of his halter class.

Owners of solid color horses have been known to dye white spots to match. Old sears on dark horses go into the show ring coated with mascara or vaseline.

Color and coat aren't all that can be doctored for a good appearance. Colorless nylon filament thread, wound tightly around the base of the ears, turns a lop-eared horse into a creature that appears to have all the alertness of an eagle.

Some trainers carry more in their tack boxes than Zsa Zsa Gabor's hairdresser making a house call -- drops for the eyes so the horse can't see; cotton for the ears so he can't hear; chains for the feet so he'll pick them up; bell boots to hide the appearance of sore feet; pills or shots in case he goes lame; glitter if he shows at night; and ginger in case he's not animated enough. Let us not even mention -- Oh! Dirty word -- tranquilizers.

Styles for humans have progressed from beehive hairdos to a no-make up look. The horse show world has not kept pace.

The curling iron has moved out of the woman's bathroom to the stable to enhance the full mane and tail some show judges like. Hunter braids are not objectionable and a fake tail braid cover may even be more comfortable for the horse than a real tail braid.

Hunter braiding serves a purpose in cross country riding. How about fake tails though? What purpose do they serve besides to look ridiculous? By the way fake tails are no longer confined to gaited horses. We've seen one even in a Western Pleasure class, frevvin's sake.

Nor are sore feet strictly for Hackney's and Walkers. Some of those reining horses are trimmed so short that they're glad to stop fast.

SOME HORSES never see a regular bit except when they're in the ring. They have learned to expect the strange constraints of gimmick bits and other training devices.

Got bad hands or a rough bit? Just wire the horse's mouth shut. Does he toss his head? Just reach out and pop him one every time he does it.

It's common to see a horse hit over the crest in the show ring for putting his head up -- but only when the judge isn't looking.

Do pretty horses have more fun? Does anyone know for sure besides their hair dressers?

The finest coat you can put on a horse is with a good feed and a lot of brushing. Rubbing the horse's coat stimulates its natural luster.

Likewise, the greatest grace and beauty shows when the horse is attentive and curious. Prancing is just another way for the horse to say, "I'm scared out of my wits."

Some trainers teach a horse to prance for the sake of showing off. They don't do it by winning the horse's trust and confidence.

The finest action a horse can display is often seen on horses turned out to pasture, sometimes on a well-ridden horse, and very occasionally in the show ring. Manmade action, whether by weighted shoes, or muscling the horse to travel with his neck up and backwards, or by just teaching to pump a lot of adrenalin whenever he's mounted, is not really very pretty.

If you've got a horse you like, you might try cultivating what's best about him. He must have some natural merit or you wouldn't like him. If you feel you have to make him over into something he's not, then you shouldn't be showing him.

Horses aren't the only ones who suffer from going the horse show route. We feel a little sorry for kids, impressionable kids, who ride at stables where the emphasis is on horse showing. Horse showing has its place in the whole spectrum of equestrian activities, but it does put such a strain on the human urge to compete with other humans that it ought to be only a small part of a kid's experience with horses.

Did we say that plainly enough? Humans like to compete -- that's their shtick. Horses don't much care about competition, particularly for human purposes.

Horse shows are invaluable for testing oneself against prevailing standards. They are also a tool for improving the breed. They encourage people to invest their money in decent tack and safe equipment.

Kids, who ought to be the world's most natural human beings, should be protected from the pressures of horse showing. A little bit can be good, particularly under the helpful coaching of someone who has no financial or emotional stake in looking good.

What's a kid learning from a trainer who takes all the short cuts, makes a horse a beautician's dream, and gets mad if the judge doesn't place his man-created horse first? What's a kid learning if he sees a judge consistently placing the artificial horse above the real one?

Hidden Valley Music Seminars to perform chorale

The second in a series of five choral concerts presented by the Hidden Valley Music Seminars will be held at the Hidden Valley Theatre on Sunday evening, July 14, at 7 p.m. Forty singers representing several of the western states comprise the outstanding young choral conducted by John S. Waddell.

Waddell, a student of Howard Swan and former conductor of the Pasadena Chorale, under Dr. Richard Lert, has been the conductor of the Hidden Valley Chorales since the inception of the program in 1962. Under his baton, Hidden Valley has performed for the Music Educators National Conference in both Kansas City and Hawaii. Some of the finest young singers on the West Coast have worked with Waddell in the music seminars' program.

It is the policy of Hidden Valley not to announce the particular works to be performed in order to allow complete freedom for the conductor to bring to performance levels those works which he feels will most benefit the members of the chorale.

Hidden Valley is basically an educational organization which attempts to share the fruits of its work with the members of its home community.

Reservations for the Sunday evening concert may be made through the Hidden Valley office (659-3115). Tickets will also be available at the door. The Hidden Valley Music Seminars is located off Carmel Valley Road at Ford Road.

Artellan Speech Therapy Benefit to be held

An auction, barbecue and jam session will be held July 14 at 12 noon at Carmel Valley Inn, sponsored by the local Nitecaps. The afternoon gala, which is slated to last until 6 p.m., is known as a Marty Artellan Speech Therapy Benefit.

The Nitecaps are sponsoring the event because local entertainer Marty Artellan needs speech therapy. Artellan, friend of many, who has numerous times helped others by donating his time and musical talents, had a stroke in early February. He has now progressed to the stage where speech therapy is necessary for his recovery. Artellan is presently at Natividad Hospital in Salinas.

The chicken barbecue starts at 12 noon, and costs $4 for adults, $2.50 for children. The auction will begin at 4 p.m. and the jam session at 6 p.m. Guests are requested to bring their own musical instruments and "jam" with the pros. Jan Bird, Sal Mercurio and Marty Artellan, Jr. will be on hand to sing and play favorite songs.

Admission is one auctionable item per person, or $1 donation. More than one item for the auction would be gratefully accepted.

If unable to attend, those interested in helping may send donation checks payable to Artellan Therapy, P.O. Box 115, Carmel Valley, 93924. Please call 659-3131 for further information.

Bank of America to present art festival

Her brush sparkles with brilliance, and her palette bespeaks the grand tradition of the Old South. She has taken the California art world by storm, and her whimsy-in-nature is the talk of West Coast collectors.

Her name is Suzanne Ryan. Her style is magic-realism.

Ms. Ryan is one of 35 prominent, professional artists who will display their own art works in person at Carmel Valley Bank of America, this Saturday and Sunday. The festival will open free of charge at 10 a.m. on both days and run until sunset.

This art festival represents a new trend among leading artists to meet the public in person and to escape the commercialism of large metropolitan art galleries.

Ms. Ryan paints -- unlike Klee or Miro -- in direct response to her whimsical impressions of the outdoors. Her paintings are characterized by sparkle and freshness. Her light touch is everywhere in evidence, and delicate brushwork disguises her strong sense of line and color.

A resident of Dana Point, Ms. Ryan hails from New Orleans. At the age of 12 she entered the famed Del Gado Museum Art Academy where her interest in line drawing was kindled. She later graduated from Tulane University Newcomb Art School with high honors. Her student paintings, which indicated the new art trends, were retained for the permanent Tulane Collection.

A unique art personality at the Laguna Festival last season, Ms. Ryan brings to Carmel Valley an assortment of paintings gathered especially for this event. Her recent landscapes, all oils and part of her rising moon series, will be exhibited this weekend.

In addition, figurative-abstract oil painter A. Blaine Riley will greet visitors. Riley is a member of the National Society of Art Directors and has produced award-winning works for the Ambassador Coconut Grove and the Ice Capades. Riley has done commissioned works for such famed collectors as TV producer Michael Grilikhes, actress Lorraine Day and Cliff Lewis of Paramount.

Peter Evans, internationally renowned guitarist, will appear at Carmel's outdoor Forest Theater, Mountain View at Santa Rita, at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 14, as a part of the city-sponsored Sunday afternoon concert series. Admission is free and all are welcome.

Peter Evans is notable in that he is proficient in both classical and flamenco styles. He spent several years in Spain living with gypsies and studying their traditional and authentic flamenco. He has been equally diligent in his study of the true classical technique. As a result, he has been acclaimed both nationally and internationally for his ability to perform in both styles with a degree of perfection that aficionados praise highly.

His American tours have taken him to all sorts of performance situations from opera houses to coffee houses. His warm personality goes out to his audience no matter what the setting. His most recent foreign tour took him to Japan as featured guitar soloist with the Serge Mendex troupe.

Coming next week: The Concert Chorale directed by John Waddell.

THE EMPEROR from "The Chinese Nightengale" by Hans Christian Anderson is one of the many hand puppets created by Francois Martin and Ralph Gettis of the Tantamount Theater and currently on display at the theater's Green Room Gallery. The exhibition, "The Fine Art of Puppet Making," will remain to the public until August 31 during the theater's regular hours: 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Sundays and Mondays, and 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. If you really want a steak that's

A STEAK!..

... the place to get it is the Outrigger. Take, for example, the popular "Steak for Two" . . . a big, double-thick center cut of rib-eye . . . juicy, flavorful, perfectly aged . . . and with that great Teriyaki taste. Beautifully broiled over charcoal, carved at your table, and served with soup, tossed green salad, saffron rice, French fried or baked potatoes.

A quiet retreat, (one block "down the hill" from busy Dolores Street) Lincoln Lane opens from Lincoln Street between 5th and 6th in Carmel. At the end of this sunny court is the charmingly continental Swiss Tavern Restaurant with its own tree-shaded terrace, flower borders and colorful umbrella-tables and chairs.

A decorated "Dutch" door opens into the main dining room . . . cozy and quaint with Swiss decorations, checked table cloths and fresh flowers. Plants decorate a large bay window overlooking the terrace.

The atmosphere is that of a Swiss Chalet. The only thing missing is the Alps in the background. The Monterey pines, flowering shrubs, clear blue sky and the sound of the ocean make a most satisfactory substitute. You won't miss the Alps after you've tasted the homemade Swiss food—authentic, delicious—as only a trained Swiss Chef could provide!

Gernot Leitzinger is very Swiss, tall, handsome and courteous, looking much younger than his many years of experience would indicate. His lovely wife, Rosemarie, will be your hostess; she is naturally alluring in the native Swiss dresses.

Gernot attended the Hotel Restaurant School in Innsbruck. After graduation, he was apprenticed to several restaurants in Switzerland. Three years later he was made the assistant chef at the Victoria Hotel in Amsterdam. An offer to work for the royal family took him to Austria. With the prince and princess' entourage, he traveled many times to their summer home in Palm Beach, Fla.

A desire to see the United States took him to San Francisco. He immediately applied for a visa and became the assistant chef at the Golf and Country Club in San Mateo. Two years later he came to the Monterey Peninsula as head chef for the Carmel Holiday Inn when it first opened. From there, he was made the food and beverage manager at the new Monterey Holiday Inn.

Three years later he accepted the position as overall manager of the Del Monte Beach and Tennis Club. During this time, Gernot won several awards and medals for entries in the Culinary Olympics (held by the Restaurant Convention in San Francisco) and in the local Heart Fund Grand Prix Culinaire. He is an artist as well as Master Chef. Photographs of his entries show them to be amazingly beautiful. One table arrangement shows a large sculpture in lard!

One year ago he purchased the Swiss Tavern Restaurant, finding the freedom of expression and enjoyment of owning his own place. Gernot and Rosemarie have been married for five years, and have a 16-month-old daughter, Christa. Rosemarie, of German parentage, graduated from the Peninsula Language School, majoring in German and French.

Gernot's dinner menu includes many veal specialties: veal cordon blue (young veal stuffed with ham and swiss cheese), veal scaloppini (sauteed with fresh mushroom and Marsala wine), and veal piccata (tender veal and zucchini rice). The appetizer specialty is escargots Borguignonne. Add Swiss wiener schnitzel, Swiss tournedos, and baked chicken and you have an exciting and varied menu.

Recently Gernot has included beef fondue Bourguignonne, a French-Swiss delicacy of beef file and specially prepared sauces. You cook the tender file pieces yourself. Just the way you like it. The dinners include homemade soup, salad, bread and sweet butter. Desserts are also homemade and delicious. Try the cup poire Helene.

ORGANIC GARDENER

By LEE HALL

Post hole composting

SEVERAL DIFFERENT ways of making compost have been described in this column. For the average sized yard, up to 1/2 acre, the 14-day method is the best. However, there is a method, which might be called "post hole" composting, which is very useful for small yards that have trees.

In this method, a clam shell post hole digger is all that is required. About every five feet under the drip line of the tree, a hole is dug with the digger, which makes a round hole about 6 or 7 inches in diameter. The holes can be dug about one to one-and-a-half feet deep before the handles get in the way.

I generally start digging four holes at a time. If the ground is too hard, the hole can be started two or three inches deep and filled with water. After the water has soaked in, the holes can be completed. The top soil is left beside the hole.

Kitchen scraps (coffee grounds, bones, citrus rinds, bread crusts, paper towels, etc.) are collected in half-gallon milk cartons or in a special under-the-sink waterproof container. As soon as a half gallon of scraps has accumulated, the container is emptied into the first hole.

Years ago, I would put a layer of dirt or handful of slacked lime over the scraps if the hole was not full, but there is a refinement I use now. Over the empty holes and the hole being filled I now insert medium sized, tapered clay or plastic flower pots, to a point about midway down the hole, with the top of the pot and flowers above ground. The flower pots effectively seal the hole, so there are no odor of fly problems, while adding a decorative touch. (Even the wife doesn't object to the procedure around trees that are upwind of the kitchen window.)

As the flower pots are watered, excess water drains through the bottom of the pot, taking rich soil bacteria into the scraps below thus hastening the decomposition process. When the hole is filled to within about an inch of the top, the flower pot is moved to an empty hole, and the completed hole is covered with soil. Actually, a little excess dirt should be heaped over the hole since the soil will sink.

The flower pot arrangement is a real convenience as well as being attractive. Before, I could only dig a few holes at a time because of the neighbors' children or horses stepping in the empty holes. Now I can dig as many holes in advance as I have flower pots. One tree accommodated 20 pots and was very attractive in the various flowers in a circle around the tree. Watering the flower means additional water is not required for the tree.

This procedure should work for most trees with the exception of oaks. Native oaks should not be watered in the summer because they sometimes get oak root fungus which can be fatal. It might work with oaks if the flower pots contained ice plants or bromeliads, which require very little water.

A medium sized tree or two or three small trees should use all the kitchen scraps of an average family. By the time the circle is completed around a medium sized tree, the first hole has finished decomposing the organics, and the soft, crumbly soil can be easily dug. Decomposition should be complete in about two months in the summertime and within about three months in winter. On a yearly basis, the circle of holes will get wider as the drip line of the tree expands.
